THE ERNEST THOMPSON SETON SCOUT RESERVATION

For fifty years, the Ernest Thompson Seton Scout Reservation has provided a place for Scouts and Scouters to revel in the magic of Scouting and behold the beauty of the outdoors. Ernest Thompson Seton resided in Greenwich and served as the Greenwich Council President and later the first Chief Scout of the Boy Scouts of America. He played a key role, along with James E. West and Daniel Carter Beard, in the founding of the Boy Scouts of America. In fact, he co-authored (with Lord Baden-Powell) the first version of the American Boy Scout Handbook.

Seton spent his entire life dazzled by the wonders of nature and always in search of adventure. He wrote many books as a naturalist and painted and drew pictures of flora and fauna.

The contagious spirit and fervor that Ernest Thompson Seton brought to his life still lives on today as the Greenwich Council, Boy Scouts of America seeks to make the next 50 years of Seton Scout Reservation as memorable, if not more, than the first.

Willard R. Devaul and Edward H. Anderson, lifelong Greenwich Scouting volunteers, contributed the vast majority of the written history of Seton Scout Reservation that follows. Both of these men also contributed greatly to all of the projects to follow with their time, talents, and treasure.

Ernest Thompson Seton

In 1949 Tom Hillegas was selected as Scout Executive because he had experience in developing and running camps. Willard Devaul was appointed chairman of a committee to hunt for a suitable site. Together they visited existing camps in Massachusetts to see how they were laid out and run. Over the next few years the council had many sites under consideration, including:

- Ten acres on the shore of Lake Zoar in Connecticut (site considered too small)
- The Close property on the north side of John Street (inadequate lake and water supply)
- Tract between North Street and Water Company Reservoir in Greenwich (no water was available)
- Calves Island off Byram Shore (required a boat to transport Scouts... bad in case of an emergency)
- About fifty acres in Ridgefield, Connecticut (lack of water)
- The actual purchased property, then owned by the Greenwich Water Company

This property was originally bought by the Greenwich Water Company for the purpose of constructing a dam and reservoir for additional water supply. When the Merritt Parkway was constructed through the site, it could no longer be used for a reservoir. The Water Company made studies and suggested a $360,000 price, which was too much for the Scouts. After a period of time the great day for Greenwich Scouting arrived when the Water Company agreed to cut the price to $180,000 and the Greenwich Council decided to make the purchase. (Willard Devaul gave credit for the price being reduced to Robert Kaufman, manager of the Water Company at the time.)

Prescott Bush, Jr. was appointed chairman of the drive committee and a goal of $240,000 set to cover cost of land and some needed structures. Although everyone worked hard, only $102,418.06 was pledged and alternate sources of revenue were needed or the project would be dropped.

At that time there was a shortage of gravel for use as a base for road construction in town. Since the property contained very good gravel at two possible lake sites, the Council received bids from contractors for each cubic yard of gravel and topsoil excavated at the lake sites. The Greenwich Council Board voted to go ahead with the project and the deed was signed on August 28, 1958. We were in business at last. Over the next two years the contractor excavated, and thanks to the lakes, the Ernest Thompson Seton Scout Reservation became a reality!

On the following pages we trace the history and development of the past five decades as Greenwich Scouting celebrates “Fifty Years of Scout Camping” at The Ernest Thompson Seton Scout Reservation!

On a beautiful sunny day, at a site overlooking Hillegas Lake, the Ernest Thompson Seton Reservation was dedicated on October 2, 1960.

During the 1960's the Seton Scout Reservation saw the following additions and improvements:

- The original Rangers Headquarters was built
- Construction of a well and a sewage disposal system
- Combination toilet and washstands were constructed in Troop Campsites
- The Health Lodge (photo at right) was constructed with funds contributed by Mrs. Robert L. Peterson, the daughter of Dr. William Henry Fry

- The original pool, shower and dressing rooms were constructed
- Storehouse (photo at left) constructed; later turned into the Trading Post, for storage and distribution of food and supplies during summer camping
- An addition was added to the Trading Post to provide a wash room and toilet facilities

- A reinforced concrete bridge (photo at right) across the Byram River was designed to carry a 15-ton load. Precast I-beam slabs manufactured by Blakslee & Co. in New Haven were used
- The first chapel was constructed at a beautiful secluded site in the woods atop a high rock cliff away from camp noises and activity

- Work parties of Scouters did landscaping throughout camp
- Boat dock was donated in memory of Eric Feldman, Troop 3

Catholic Mass on the Sports Field at a Camporee in 1964.

- Area cleared for field sports (photo at right)

During the 1970's the Seton Scout Reservation saw the following additions and improvements:

- Parade ground and parking lot were created on the West side of Hillegas Lake
- The Activities Building was constructed (photo at right)
- The Apache Campsite was developed, thanks to a donation by Litita & Oliver Sandreuter, in memory of William Ewing Sherman
- James C. Reilly designed and carved totem poles that were located at the vehicle bridge

- Camping in tents was slowly evolving into camping in permanent structures. Lean-tos (photo at left) were donated by the Byram Rotary Club, the Exchange Club of Greenwich, the Greenwich Jr. Woman's Club and individuals such as Willis M. Fanning and Theodore D. Helpin

- The Winter Cabin, formerly a "shower house", was converted to a lodge and dedicated to Leslie T. Hand
- Other developments at Seton were made possible by contributions from several individuals and local civic organizations such as the Rotary Club and the Kiwanis Club, and included the Old Greenwich Lions Club which donated the winter campsite with watered latrine

During the 1980's the Seton Scout Reservation saw the following additions and improvements:

- Roadways were improved with some resurfacing and culverts added to improve drainage
- Systematic cutting of trees took place to improve the property
- In 1985 Seton Scout Reservation reached its 25th year. Conservation Lake was renamed Prescott S. Bush Sr. Lake and the nature area named to honor Willard R. Devaul

- The Administration and Commissary building, now called the Lions Lodge (photo at left), was enlarged to provide a staff kitchen, male/female shower facilities and flush toilets
- Old Greenwich Lions Club's gifts provided funds for lean-tos in the Lions Den Campsite

- From 1987-89 the Malcolm S. Pray III building was constructed, memorializing this youth, who was in his teens when his life was cut short in an auto accident. Malcolm S. Pray, Jr. took on the task of raising the funds to bring it to completion. This is now the focus of Seton Scout Reservation activities

During the 1990's the Seton Scout Reservation saw the following additions and improvements:

- The Fry Lodge (photo at left) was modified from a single usage health lodge to a temporary lodging for the new Campmaster Corps, recently formed to support Camp Seton. The kitchen was modernized and closet space was added

- A steel bridge was installed across the river leading to the pool
- A 400' deep well yielding 20 gpm was dug behind the Lions Lodge, with an all weather hydrant installed
- Improvements and internal modifications were made to the Eleanor and G. Gordon Fisher Lodge (Rangers house, photo at right)
- All trail markers were replaced with newly designed, highly visible discs
- The bridge, in the vicinity of Conservation Lake, was replaced by the Order of the Arrow

- The Lions Lodge was converted into an all seasons building for use as a summer camp headquarters, meeting area or a sleeping facility (photo at left) with easily stored and assembled cots. Modifications included a new kitchen as well as a gas heating system. A substantial canvas cover (photo at right) was installed behind the building to provide an area for use in inclement weather

- A trail map and an orienteering map of Seton (photo below) were developed from current aerial photography. This was the first mapping of Seton for usage by Scouts to enhance their training

- In 1998 the Greenwich Council voluntarily agreed to impose a Declaration of Restrictions and Preservation Easement on the area of Reservation lying west of the Merritt parkway (158 acres). The Restrictions prohibit any future development, other than for Scout or similar activities and programs. This ensures that the 158 acres will remain in essentially its natural condition in perpetuity

Since 2000 the Seton Scout Reservation saw the following additions and improvements:

- A wooden bridge was constructed by the OA on the Byram River in the wilderness area of Camp Seton. The finished bridge was dedicated and a plaque installed naming it Stewart's Crossing, in honor of the former Council Commissioner Richard Stewart who spent many years developing youth activities
- Construction on a new maintenance building (photo at right) to house and service camp equipment, later named in honor of Edward H. Anderson
- All camp roadway signs were customized
- The Archery Range was established in memory of Robert M. Palmer, later expanded to 10 positions

- The Pool and Pool Building were completed and opened for use by the Day Camp and other Scouting programs (photo at right and below)

- In May 2003 the dedication of The Brian Wert Interfaith Chapel (photo at right) was held and a gateway was installed at the entrance to the "Wilderness Area" of Camp Seton in memory of J. Porter Brinton, a significant benefactor to the Greenwich Council

- Eagles Flight, a large bronze statue, was donated by Mrs. Gunhild Tibbetts in memory of her husband Hubert M. Tibbetts, an Eagle Scout, WWII Veteran and later a Fortune 500 Corporation President

- A new parade ground gateway and flag pole site were finished in front of the Pray Building (photos at left)

- The sports court (above) was added near the Activities Building

2000's

• In 2007 modifications to the Activities Building (photo at left) and the new Ranger house were completed

• In 2008 an 8' bouldering wall (photo at right) was added near the pool

• Hillegas Lake was finally dredged! 13,000 cubic yards of uncontaminated sand, gravel, and mixed organic silt were removed and deposited on sites within Camp Seton

• The Bob Neilsen Building, donated by the Dalio Family in honor of Scoutmaster Bob Neilsen, will be completed in late 2010 and house the Camp office, first aid station, trading post, and Campmaster quarters
